Dean's Letter

SEPTEMBER 1997

DEAR ALUMNI AND FRIENDS,

I selected "leadership" as the theme for the feature story in this year's Kentucky Lawyer after the Kentucky Bar Association's annual convention in Louisville last June. I am not sure if I can define leadership, but I think I know leadership when I see it being exercised. Moreover, during my tenure as Dean of the College of Law I have come to admire many UK Law graduates who are exemplary leaders. In my opinion, their actions and achievements define leadership.

My inspiration for this theme began to develop as I attended several special events during the convention. I always seemed to be applauding the outstanding accomplishments of UK Law alumni. Several were recognized at the annual membership luncheon and it was wonderful to see these men and women congratulated for their leadership serving the legal profession and our system of justice. Five distinguished UK lawyers who were leaders throughout their careers were inducted into our Alumni Hall of Fame during the College of Law's annual dinner. The following evening, at the KBA's annual banquet, Norman Harned '65 stepped down as President of the KBA, and Robert Elliott '74 was sworn in by Chief Justice Robert Stephens '51 as the KBA's new leader. Bobby inspired everyone with his acceptance speech, "Lawyers Are People Too," and showed that he will be a strong advocate for the legal profession.

I also attended the Young Lawyers Luncheon and came away convinced that UK's leadership will continue for many, many years. The President of our Law Alumni Association last year, Ron Walker '87, was named "Young Lawyer of the Year," and Mary Jane Wilhoit Phelps '89 took over from Palmer Vance '90 as President of the Young Lawyers Section.

I am confident that this tradition of leadership by UK Law graduates will endure because our students are men and women of character. During the 1996/97 academic year UK's 420 students engaged in over 15,000 hours of public service activities. They assisted the Salvation Army, God's Pantry, the Hope Center, the Fayette County Pro Bono Project, "KIDS VOTE" and many other organizations. These law students will become outstanding members of the legal profession!

With 420 students, a faculty of 28, and slightly more than 5000 living alumni, the UK College of Law is a relatively small law school by national standards. These modest numbers belie the tremendous impact our law school has had on the Commonwealth, the region and the nation since it was established in 1908. Please share my great pride in the careers of the many leaders who have been educated at the UK College of Law, and my great optimism for the future of this law school and our profession.

Sincerely,

Distinguished Careers are the mark of Leadership

Leadership is a hot topic, and not just for management consultants and MBA programs. Leadership is defined in the Webster's II dictionary as the capacity or ability to lead. There are multiple definitions for "leader" and "lead" including one that leads or guides, one in charge of others, a person who has influence, to show the way, to be first, and to tend toward a given goal or result. Last spring there was a special seminar on higher education issues at the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School where an entire day was devoted to presentations on leadership. The characteristics of being a leader will be discussed at length at the American Bar Association's next workshop for law school deans.

The Kentucky Bar Association's President, Bobby Elliott '74, further defines leadership. He grew up with the impression that being a lawyer and a leader were synonymous and that he still feels this way. Based upon the achievements of the men and women who have graduated from the UK College of Law since it was established in 1908, the people who edit Webster's could add "lawyer" to the definitions of leadership and leader along with the following parenthetical; especially lawyers educated at the University of Kentucky College of Law.

The UK College of Law is a relatively small law school by national standards with just over 420 students and slightly more than 5000 living alumni. Roughly a third of the lawyers in Kentucky are graduates. Nevertheless, UK Law alumni have had an impact on the Commonwealth, the region and the nation far greater than one would expect from a school with those modest numbers. UK educated lawyers are found in leadership positions in politics and the public sector, business, education, civic and charitable organizations, and churches and synagogues.

The KBA is led by UK Law graduates. Twelve of the last thirteen Presidents are alumni including the first woman to serve in this office, Marcia Milby Ridings '76. The President-elect and the Vice President are UK Lawyers as are the KBA's Executive Director and six of the fourteen men and women on the Board of Governors. Alumni include the President and the President-elect of the Kentucky Bar Foundation, the Chair of the Kentucky IOLTA Fund, and the Chair and Past-Chair of the Young Lawyers Section.

At the College's fall orientation for first-year law students Dean David Shipley talked about Bobby Elliott as an example of a lawyer/leader. Bobby is the grandson of two lawyers, the son-in-law of a lawyer as well as the son of a lawyer. He grew up witnessing the leadership roles held by each of those persons in their profession, schools, churches and communities. He credits his many accomplishments to this background, his beloved Centre College, and the UK College of Law:

"I was able to learn from professors who were not only excellent teachers, but excellent role models as well. One did not have to look far to find individuals who were contributors and leaders in their professional and personal lives. I could walk down a hall into the offices of persons like W.L. Matthews, Bob Lawson, Bill Fortune and others. We learned that earning a law degree not only afforded us an opportunity for success, but also placed upon us a responsibility to ourselves, our profession and most importantly to others who would rely upon us."

The list of political leaders who received their legal educations at UK is also impressive. For example, it includes five former Governors of the Commonwealth

Edward T. "Ned" Breathitt '50, Julian M. Carroll '56, John Y. Brown Jr. '61, the late Albert B. "Happy" Chander '24, and the late Bert Combs '37; Attorney General Ben Chandler '86 and Secretary of State John Y. Brown III '92; one of Kentucky's U.S.

Senators, Mitch McConnell '67; and, three of Kentucky's six members of the U.S. House of Representatives, Hal Rogers '64, Scotty Baesler '66, and Ed Whitfield '69. Mike Duncan '74 of Inez is Vice Chairman of Southern States Association for the Republican Party and National Committeeman for Kentucky. There are, of course, many more UK Law alumni who serve or have served with distinction as elected officials on the state and local level in Kentucky and other states.

Former Governor Ned Breathitt was inspired to become a lawyer by his grandfather James Breathitt, a lawyer, circuit judge and Attorney General of Kentucky. Ned recalls his grandfather winning a Christian Circuit Court jury verdict at the age of 84 and saying, "Ned, you should study to be a lawyer. It is a noble profession and you never have to retire as long as you have your wits about you and have good health."

Governor Breathitt made up his mind to become a lawyer after this tinguished career in politics and public service. Governor Breathitt is quick to add that "none of these opportunities would have been mine if I had not chosen to enroll in the University of Kentucky College of Law."

The College of Law is well represented in the judiciary and the justice system. Four of the Supreme Court's seven justices are alumni including Chief Justice Robert Stephens '51 and the first woman elected to Kentucky's highest court, Justice Janet Stumbo '82. Many alumni sit on the Kentucky Court of Appeals as well as on the state's Circuit and District Courts. The Director of the Administrative Office of the Courts is a UK Law graduate. Seven of the twelve United States District Court Judges in the Eastern and Western Districts of Kentucky are UK Law graduates including the first woman appointed to the federal bench in the Commonwealth, Judge Jennifer B. Coffman '78. All five of the United States Bankruptcy Judges in Kentucky

The phrase, "Is the evidence trustworthy?" was often repeated by Lawson in response to students' answers in the evidence class Judge Hood took from Bob Lawson over twenty-five years ago. Hood says,

"Professor Lawson's patient explanation of the foundation of the exceptions to the hearsay rule and of the other rules of evidence guide my evidentiary rulings to this day. Indeed, I frequently decide an issue by asking how he would address it. I attribute whatever success I have had as jurist to the lessons I learned as a student of Bob Lawson. He is a great teacher."

Law alumni serve with distinction as leaders in education. They are trustees, regents and board members for many institutions of higher learning including the University of

Moreover, the school's graduates are often called upon to lead Chambers of Commerce and Development Boards in places like Lexington, Louisville and Northern Kentucky.

UK Law alumni are community and civic leaders, chairs of school boards and planning commissions, heads of arts councils and museum boards, lay leaders for churches and synagogues, and scout masters and soccer coaches. They also are outstanding lawyers who are leading the major law firms throughout the Commonwealth, across the United States and overseas.

This tradition of leadership and service will flourish because every year the University of Kentucky College of Law admits outstanding men and women who are not only very intelligent but also experienced leaders who are dedicated to service. In every class there are men and women who could become a Governor or U.S. Senator, a Supreme Court Justice or the Attorney General, a CEO for a large corporation or the managing partner for a 400 lawyer firm, the Chair of a Board of Education or the President of the local Rotary or Kiwanis Club. A person who graduates from the University of Kentucky College of Law is prepared to be an outstanding lawyer and a leader. ■

Student Leader — Jennifer Moore

For the first time since the 1968 riots, the Democrat National Convention returned to Chicago. One of the youngest delegates to attend the convention as a member of the Kentucky delegation was Jennifer Moore, a third year law student at the College of Law.

Jennifer has been extremely active in Democrat politics and campaigns. As a student at Transylvania University, Jennifer organized the College Democrats on campus and worked on the 1992 Clinton/Gore campaign and the campaign to re-elect U.S. Senator Wendell Ford. During the campaign, President Clinton asked Jennifer to speak to a crowd of 10,000 in Freedom Hall in Louisville about his Americorps program. Jennifer spent the next two summers interning for Senator Ford in Washington, D.C. and for the Office of Legislative Affairs in the White House. While an intern, Jennifer witnessed the confirmation hearings of Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg.

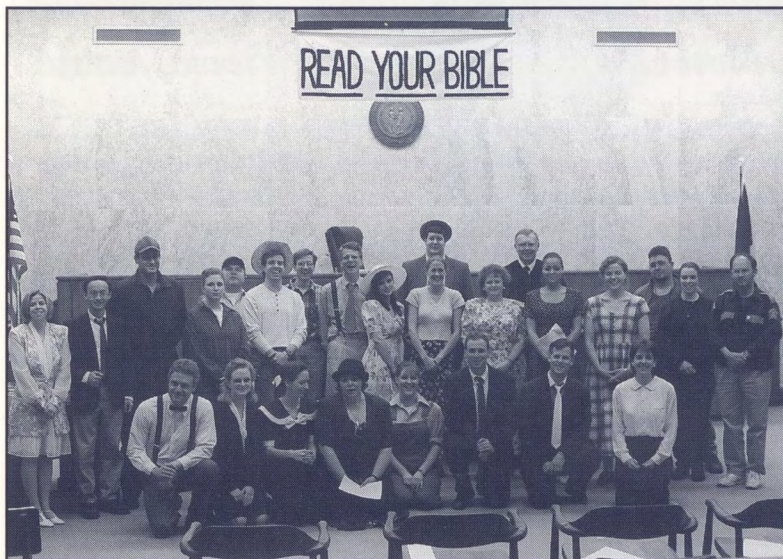

Jennifer serves as a member of both the Moot Court Board and the Kentucky Law Journal. Her note on "Campaign Finance Reform in Kentucky: The Race for Governor" will be published in the fall. She spent last summer working as a summer associate at Wyatt, Tarrant & Combs in Louisville, Kentucky. After graduation, Jennifer will clerk for Chief Judge Boyce Martin, Jr. of the United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit.

Inherit The Wind

The Student Public Interest Law Foundation staged its first production of Inherit the Wind to help raise funds for summer fellowships in the area of public interest law. UK College of Law students, alumni, faculty and staff performed together in this play about the famous Scopes "monkey" trial. Third-year law student Glenn McClister, the show's director and one of its lead actors, was awarded the prestigious Faculty Cup at graduation to recognize his efforts in mounting this play which instilled a sense of community, pride and fun in those who watched and participated in it.

Rhoads & Rhoads Trial Advocacy Team Places in Top Six

In 1990, the College formulated its first official Trial Advocacy Board. Now entering its seventh year, this board has grown significantly in size and stature.

The Rhoads & Rhoads Association of Trial Lawyers of America (ATLA) Trial Competition team is one of the teams organized by TAB. They successfully competed in the ATLA regional trial competition held at the University of Louisville in March. The team consisted of now recent graduates Joe Foster, Lettricea Jefferson-Webb, Marshall Hixson and James Tilson. The team won two of their three preliminary rounds, beating the top team from the University of Louisville. They narrowly missed making the semi-finals of the competition. They placed in the top six out of the more than twenty teams that participated in the event. The team was sponsored by the Madisonville law firm of Rhoads & Rhoads, P.S.C. and was coached by UK Law alumni R.Burl McCoy '72 and his partner John Kevin West '86.

UK Law Students Engage in Community Service

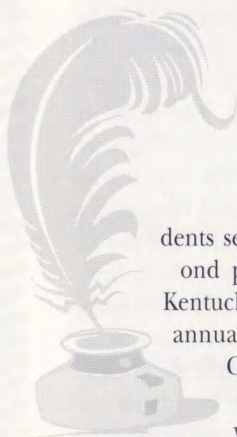

In addition to the traditional student social activities such as the Bar-rister's Ball, Race Judicata, Cardozo Open Golf Tournament, Libel Show, Halloween Party and Intramurals, UK law students proved to be very community-minded under the charismatic leadership of SBA President, Fitz Johnson. The SBA coordinated many service projects, including a blood drive, Thanksgiving food drive, Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program, and Salvation Army Angel Tree program which provided holiday gifts for over 100 children. With the help of generous donations from alumni and friends, the SBA also renovated the "dirty lounge" with the addition of new furniture and a mural on the wall painted by a local artist. Stop by and see its new look.

KBA Writing Awards UK Students Take First and Second Place

UK College of Law students secured first and second place awards in the Kentucky Bar Association's annual Student Writing Competition. The first place winner was Elizabeth Overton, the Editor in Chief of the Kentucky Law Journal. Second place was awarded to Wesley Butler, a 1997 graduate who began work at the Lexington firm of Fowler, Measle & Bell this Fall.

Moot Court Team Competes in Vienna, Austria

This year, for the first time in the history of the College of Law, we were able to send our International Moot Court team abroad to Vienna, Austria to compete in the William C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot. Our team placed 5th out of a pool of 48 teams which were a part of this competition and they were the only team from the United States to have a respondent's memorandum recognized at the awards banquet. The team consisted of Julius Floyd, II, Evan Jones, Vicky Karugu, Chris Lewis and Bill Waskey and they were coached by Professor Stephen Vasek.

The trip to Vienna was made possible through the generous support of the law firm of Jackson & Kelly. Thanks to their contribution, UK's team was able to learn what it will be like to practice in the international arena. It was a fantastic experience for the students and Professor Vasek.

Edward T. Breathitt

Governor Edward T. (Ned)

Breathitt was born and raised in Hopkinsville, did his undergraduate work at UK's College of Commerce and graduated from the College of Law in 1950. Upon graduation he was admitted to the bar and returned to Hopkinsville for a career of law and public service.

Breathitt ran for his first public office in 1951 and was elected to the Kentucky House of Representatives. He served as the President of the Young Democratic Clubs of Kentucky and as chairman of the state speakers' bureau for Adlai Stevenson's presidential campaign in 1952. In 1954 he worked on the state campaign staff of former Vice President Alben W. Barkley's successful bid for re-election to the U.S. Senate.

Breathitt served three terms in the Kentucky legislature, was a member of the Governor's Commission on Mental Health and the State Public Service Commission, and was State Personnel Commissioner. He was elected Governor of Kentucky in 1963. During his tenure he became best known for his role in the civil rights movement and he received the prestigious Lincoln Key Award in 1966 for his leadership in the passage of the state's civil rights bill.

After returning to private practice in 1967, Breathitt became special counsel in Kentucky for the Southern Railway. He was named Director of the Institute for Rural America and was appointed Federal Representative on the Southern Interstate Nuclear Board in 1968. He was elected Chairman of the Coalition for Rural America in 1971. He joined Southern Railway (which eventually became Norfolk Southern Corporation) in 1972 as Vice President of Public Affairs. He remained with this company until his retirement in 1992 when he returned to Kentucky and began practicing with the law firm of Wyatt, Tarrant & Combs in Lexington.

Throughout his career Governor Breathitt has had a strong interest in volunteer and community service. He has served as a Director of the Home Loan Bank of Cincinnati and as Chairman of the Kentucky Heart Fund Campaign. He has been a strong advocate for higher education having served on the Council of Higher Education, the Board of Regents of both Morehead State University and Kentucky State University, and on the Southern Region Education Board. He is the current Chairman of the UK Board of Trustees. He is a past member of the College of Law's Visiting Committee and has played an integral role in the planning and execution of several of the College's major fundraising projects including the Bert Combs Scholars program. The Edward T. Breathitt Professorship has been established in his honor at the College of Law. This distinguished position is currently held by Professor William Fortune.

Albert Benjamin Chandler

Governor Albert B.

"Happy" Chandler was born in Henderson County Kentucky and received his law degree from the UK College of Law in 1924. That year, while serving as the football coach for Centre College, Chandler began his law practice in Versailles. His first run for public office came in 1929 when he was elected to the State Senate. This proved to be the beginning of a lifetime of service to the Commonwealth. He became the Lieutenant Governor in 1931 and was elected to his first term as Governor of Kentucky in 1935. Governor Chandler was the first UK College of Law graduate to hold Kentucky's highest elected office. Upon completion of his term, he was appointed to the U.S. Senate to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Marvell Mills Logan. In 1940 he was elected to fill the remainder of this term and was re-elected 1942. In 1945 Chandler resigned from the Senate to accept the position of Commissioner of Baseball. He made an indelible mark in the history of our national pastime while holding this office by presiding over the integration of major league baseball in 1947.

After his tenure as Commissioner of Baseball Chandler returned to Kentucky where he embarked upon another successful gubernatorial race, winning the office in 1955. Among his many accomplishments during his second term was the establishment of the University of Kentucky Medical Center. The Medical Center was named in his honor in 1959. Although this term as governor was the last political office he would hold, Happy Chandler continued to be deeply interested and involved in Kentucky politics until his death in 1991.

Governor Chandler was an active supporter of civic and professional endeavors throughout his career. He served on both the UK and Transylvania Boards of Trustees, he was President of the International Baseball Congress from 1945-51, and was Commissioner of the Continental Professional Football League in 1965. Chandler was Director of the First Flight Golf Company and Coastal States Life Insurance Company, he was an organizer of the Kentucky Home Life Insurance Company, and he was very active in the Democratic Party throughout his career. He was a longtime member of the UK Athletics Board and was inducted into the Kentucky Sports Hall of Fame as well as the National Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown. He was named Kentuckian of the Year by the Kentucky Press Association and the Kentucky Broadcasters Association. Happy Chandler was known throughout the Commonwealth for his love of his "Old Kentucky Home" and his alma mater, the University of Kentucky.

Hall of Fame

Ollen B. Hinnant, II

Ollen Hinnant grew up in Lexington and received his LL.B. in 1955 from the UK College of Law. He is the first African-American to graduate from the College and in doing so he blazed a trail for many who have followed in his path. Upon graduation Hinnant served two years in the army before beginning his legal career with State Farm Insurance where he became the first Black lawyer in the history of the company. Mr. Hinnant then accepted a position with the Prudential Insurance Company where he rose through the ranks to become an Assistant General Counsel in the International Law Department and a Special Assistant to the Chairman of the Board.

While at Prudential Mr. Hinnant continued to pave the way for other African-Americans. He was the first Black general counsel of Prudential, the first Black chair of the American Bar Association Health Insurance Committee, and the first Black to represent the ABA to the American Medical Association.

Because of his knowledge and expertise in the insurance field Mr. Hinnant often found himself put in leadership positions representing Prudential in a number of international business meetings. He was highly regarded in Washington where he played an integral role in the appointment of Juanita Morris Kreps to the position of Secretary of Commerce in 1979. He was appointed as a judge on the Selective Service Board by President Ford, and under President Reagan's administration he was appointed as a United States Commissioner to UNESCO and to a presidential task force. Mr. Hinnant left Prudential in 1983 to accept a position with the international law firm of Delson & Gordon. He remained with this firm until his retirement.

Mr. Hinnant now resides in Lexington where he remains very involved with the University of Kentucky. He is an active member of the College of Law's Diversity and Visiting Committees and is currently working with the UK Recognition Planning Committee organizing the 50th Anniversary of the integration of UK by African-American students.

impacted his profession, the City of Louisville, education and his alma mater, the University of Kentucky College of Law. He served as attorney advisor for the United States Tax Court from 1956-59, he was Chairman of the Bar-IRS Liaison Group for the Central Region, he chaired the Planning Committee for the Kentucky Institute on Federal Taxation, and he chaired the Tax Section for the Louisville Bar Association. His hard work and accomplishments did not go unnoticed as evidenced by his listing in the book Best Lawyers in America every year since its first publication in 1983.

Mr. Leatherman was committed to improving the quality of life for the people of Louisville. He devoted many hours to public service and was a driving force in the creation of a comprehensive plan for downtown Louisville. He served as director of the Downtown Development Corporation, Chairman of the Louisville Chamber of Commerce, and Commissioner of the Louisville & Jefferson County Convention & Visitors Bureau. He was a strong advocate for education serving as a Trustee and Vice President of the Gheens Foundation, a Director for the Center for Leadership and School Reform, a member of the Executive Committee for Bellarmine College, and one of the founding members of the Kentucky Education Foundation.

His impact on education reached far beyond Louisville. Mr. Leatherman had a deep and continuing commitment to the quality of legal education in Kentucky, especially with regards to the UK College of Law. He was a driving force in the establishment of the College's Lafferty Society, he served tirelessly as President of the Alumni Board, and was a very active member of the College's Visiting Committee. He made a significant impact on the College by establishing the Laramie L. Leatherman Professorship. This endowment became a Distinguished Professorship after his death by a generous gift from the Gheens Foundation in Mr. Leatherman's memory.

Larry Leatherman was born in Martinsville, Illinois, did his undergraduate work at Eastern Illinois and came to Kentucky in 1950 to pursue his law degree at the University of Kentucky. He received his LL.B. from UK in 1953 and went on to distinguish himself professionally as an outstanding tax lawyer. He was one of the earliest partners with the firm of Greenebaum Doll & McDonald. He joined that firm in 1959, became Chairman of the Executive Committee in 1987, and served in that capacity until his death in 1994.

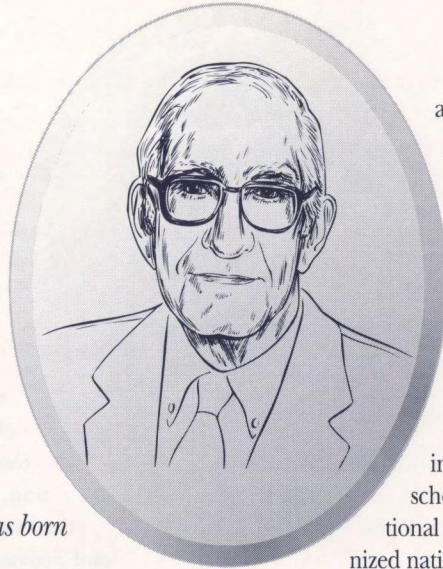

A hallmark of Mr. Leatherman's career was his commitment to and involvement in programs that greatly

Paul Oberst

Professor Oberst was born in Owensboro, did his undergraduate work at Evansville College, and received his LL.B. from the University of Kentucky in 1939. He graduated second in his class, was Order of the Coif and the Note Editor of the Kentucky Law Journal. After doing graduate work at the University of Michigan, Paul started practicing for the largest law firm in Kansas City. He stayed only a few months before World War II intervened. He was commissioned as an Ensign in the Navy and assigned to the Office of Naval Intelligence. He was awarded a Commendation "With Ribbon" for his service by Admiral Nimitz, Commander in Chief of the Pacific Ocean Areas.

In December of 1945 Paul was offered a teaching position at UK by Dean Evans, he accepted, and in January of 1946 returned to Lexington to begin an unprecedented career at the UK College of Law. Oberst was promoted to the rank of Professor after one year of teaching, and he served as Acting Dean of the College from 1966-67. He held numerous visiting professor positions through the years and although he allegedly retired in 1983, Paul remains very active and involved in the day to day life of the law school. He taught courses in torts, constitutional law, administrative law and was recognized nationally as a constitutional law scholar.

Professor Oberst is known for his leadership in faculty rights and interests. He was a member of the National Commission on Academic Tenure in Higher Education from 1971-73 and was a longtime member of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP). As a member of AAUP he played a vital role in securing the legislation which added two faculty members to the UK Board of Trustees. Paul served three terms as an elected member of the Board and several terms as an elected member of the UK Faculty Senate. He also played a key role in forming the "Association of Emeritus Faculty" and the "Emeritus Corps." These organizations were created to protect the interests of retired faculty.

Throughout the years, Paul Oberst has been a strong champion of academic freedom. He actively participated with Elvis Stahr and W. L. Matthews in securing the admission of the first Black student to attend the law school, John Hatch. He served on the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights for 22 years and was Chairman for seven years. Professor Oberst also was highly regarded by state government and received appointments to serve on both the Commission on Reorganization of the Executive Branch and the Kentucky Commission on Corrections.

Professor Oberst continues to come to the College of Law every day. He has a true passion for legal education and has made a lasting impact on the University of Kentucky and its College of Law.

UK COLLEGE OF LAW ALUMNI HALL OF FAME

CRITERIA AND NOMINATION FORM

Nominations are now being accepted for the UK College of Law's Alumni Hall of Fame.

This program will honor up to three alumni annually, and inductions will take place at the College's awards banquet during the KBA convention in June. All nominations will be carefully considered by the board of directors of the Law Alumni Association. Please consider the following criteria when nominating an alumnus.

A. Candidates must have earned a law degree from the University of Kentucky not less than 10 years prior to consideration. Candidates may not be active board members of the Law Alumni Association, and cannot at the time of nomination or selection be the holder of an elected partisan political office.

B. To be selected for the Hall of Fame, a candidate must meet the following criteria:

- Candidate must have reached and remained at the pinnacle of his or her field for a period of time sufficient to demonstrate perseverance and maturation and/or must have effected a profound positive influence on the College of Law in the years since his or her graduation.

- Candidate must be recognized by his or her peers as having reached and remained at the pinnacle of his or her field and/or having a profound positive influence on the College of Law.

- Professional success and significant contributions to a specialty are not achievement enough to warrant nomination to the Alumni Hall of Fame.

C. The honor of distinguished alumnus is not given so much in recognition of an office or position held, but rather for the actual merit of the individual's work in his or her chosen field of endeavor or and professional leadership. Candidates must have exhibited a high degree of character and integrity.

D. Evidence for meeting the above criteria can come from detailed information about the candidate's credentials, achievements, the impact and implications of those accomplishments, public awards and honors, and outside sources such as published articles and previously aired video or audio tapes. The selection committee considers all information included with nominations in making their decisions.

E. All candidates, living and deceased, will be considered regardless of race, gender or religion.

UPDATE

The Initiative 2000 Campaign began in 1996. Since that time many of you have generously supported this program which, upon its completion in the year 2000, will provide the funding for the Ashland Inc. Chair of Excellence and the Ashland Inc.

INITIATIVE 2000

Law Scholars Program. Initiative 2000 is a matching gift program whereby Ashland Inc. provides $1 for every $2 that is donated to the College for this campaign. Our goal for the campaign is to raise $400,000 over a 4-year period in order to receive the maximum match of $200,000 from Ashland Inc. We are off to a great start and to date we have raised $345,176 of our $400,000 goal. We owe our success to the many alumni and friends of the College who have supported this effort. Remember, we still have $54,824 to raise in order to complete this campaign. Your continued support of this program will be greatly appreciated.

James G. Stephenson '66 Retires from Ashland Inc.

It was a bittersweet day when Dean Shipley received a call from Jim Stephenson announcing his early retirement from Ashland Inc. effective September 30, 1997. Jim has been serving as the Vice President-Law for Ashland Inc. since 1988. We understand he will remain as a consultant to Ashland and, effective October 1, 1997, will become affiliated as Of Counsel with Stoll, Keenan & Park. He also intends to pursue his interests in arbitration and mediation of complex litigation.

Jim has been the driving force behind Ashland Inc.'s generous support of the College of Law. The current Initiative 2000 Campaign and the earlier Ashland Inc. Professorships Campaign have been realized due to the vision and support of Jim Stephenson. The combined endowments will be close to $1.5 million when the Initiative 2000 Campaign is complete. Jim's presence at Ashland Inc. will be greatly missed but we anticipate that he will continue to lead advancement efforts at the College for years to come. He has been a great advocate for the College and is someone who exemplifies the qualities of a leader.

Retirement is a very special time in a person's life. We wish Jim, and all of you who are entering this phase of your career, great success and happiness.

Inaugural Ashland Inc. Law Scholar Awarded

Ashland Law Scholar James Rhorer and David Shipley at the Alumni Student Faculty Hall of Fame Banquet in June.

Although the Initiative 2000 Campaign will not be complete until the year 2000, the naming of the Ashland Inc. Legal Scholar began this year. This award provides a full three-year scholarship plus a stipend to one entering student each year. The 1997-98 Ashland Inc. Legal Scholar is Mr. James Sutton Rhorer. He is a native of Richmond, KY and graduated from Transylvania University with a degree in Mathematics.

Charles S. Cassis Award

Alumnus Charles S. Cassis '63, created an endowment to reward outstanding writing in the Kentucky Law Journal by either a faculty member or a student at the College. Jennifer Moore of Paducah, Kentucky is the recipient of this year's award. She is a graduate of Transylvania University and is currently in her third-year of law school. She received the award for her Kentucky Law Journal note "Campaign Finance Reform in Kentucky: The Race for Governor."

Henry R. Heyburn Student Public Service Award

The Henry R. Heyburn Student Public Service Award was established by the Honorable John G. Heyburn, class of '76, in memory of his father, Henry R. Heyburn, to reward students and alumni who have distinguished the Law school and the profession with their dedication to public service. The first Henry R. Heyburn Student Public Service Award was presented to T. Fitz Johnson.

Fitz is a graduate of the Citadel and is in his final year of Law school.

Wyatt, Tarrant & Combs Enhances Professorship

In 1996 the firm of Wyatt, Tarrant & Combs announced a multi-year commitment to the UK College of Law to increase the endowment supporting their current professorship. Upon completion of the firm's commitment in the year 2000 the Wyatt, Tarrant & Combs Professorship will be one of the largest professorships awarded by the College. The College is grateful to everyone at the firm for their outstanding support.

acknowledges the 1996-97 members of the Dean's Circle. Membership in the Dean's Circle occurs when a firm with five or more UK Law graduates presents a 100% participation standard within the firm. These 13 firms/organizations are indeed some of the College's most valued supporters.

KERRICK, GRISE & STIVERS Bowling Green, Elizabethtown, Kentucky

Kerrick, Grise & Stivers, an AV rated law firm in Bowling Green, has opened an office in Elizabethtown. The firm offers a full range of services and representation; however, its foundation and strength lie in litigation. ## The University of Kentucky College of Law

The Lafferty Society is the College of Law's recognition group and an important part of UK's Fellows program. Membership in the Lafferty Society is gained when gifts and pledges of at least $10,000 for individuals and $50,000 for organizations are designated for the use of the College. Bequests, insurance policies and trust agreements that benefit the College of Law in an amount of no less than $50,000 also qualify individuals for membership.

If you are already a UK Fellow, membership in the College of Law's Lafferty Society occurs when an additional commitment of at least $5,000 is given for the use of the College. For more information, please contact Mary Serini Buckles at 606/257-3208.

McMurry & Livingston traces its heritage to 1925, when W.F. McMurry began a law practice in Paducah, Kentucky. His son, W. Pelham McMurry, began practicing in 1947, and was joined by Milton M. Livingston, Jr. in 1966. They founded McMurry & Livingston in 1970, and the firm has expanded to 10 attorneys.

McMurry & Livingston is engaged in the diversified general practice of law, including admiralty, banking, bankruptcy, corporate, utilities, insurance, hospital, real estate, probate and estate planning, employment law, family law, workers' compensation, personal injury, and legal and medical malpractice. The firm's practice involves litigation and appeals in state and federal courts in western Kentucky.

WOODWARD HOBSON & FULTON

Louisville, Lexington, Kentucky & New Albany, IN

Woodward Hobson & Fulton was founded in 1917 by Ernest Woodward, Sr. after a year's service as General Attorney for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. The firm is well known for its extensive involvement and experience in complex civil litigation matters, insurance defense work, products liability defense cases, medical and other professional malpractice defense matters, and corporate and commercial litigation issues. The firm's other areas of expertise include business, environmental, labor and tax law section, a health and hospital law practice, and a real estate and administrative law section. Woodward, Hobson & Fulton now has over 40 attorneys practicing in our Louisville, Lexington and recently opened New Albany, Indiana offices.

With 80 years of proud Kentucky heritage, Woodward, Hobson & Fulton represents each of our clients in the most vigorous, thorough and ethical manner possible. We continue to make our best even better and are committed to delivering Kentucky's highest quality legal services.

Professorships Awarded for 1996-97 Academic Year

Top quality faculty are at the heart of the educational process. Our academic standards are established by our faculty and through their research, the knowledge base of the legal profession has expanded and improved. Professorships are vital to the UK College of Law because they provide the resources that enable the College's historically low salaries to be more competitive with those of our benchmark institutions.

Professorships enable the College to recruit and retain an outstanding faculty which directly impacts the quality of education that we provide to our students. As we strive to enhance the College of Law's standing among the nation's best public schools, professorships remain a priority in our fundraising endeavors.

We would like to thank the individuals, firms, foundations and companies listed below that have made these professorships possible. They support a faculty of outstanding teachers and scholars.

Alumni President

DEAR ALUMNI AND FRIENDS,

I am very honored to serve as President of the UK College of Law Alumni Association for the year 1997 - 1998. Anyone attending our Hall of Fame Banquet will recognize that our Alumni Association is a group of individuals who have had profound effects upon individuals, organizations, local communities, states, our nation and even the world. There are many "Hall of Famers" within our membership, only a few of whom have been recognized.

I have always felt very fortunate to have been admitted to the UK College of Law and truly believe that my University of Kentucky law degree has opened doors for me that otherwise might have been closed. Consequently, I have always attempted to give of myself and my money to support our Law School and have never really been able to understand why others have not. Our current enrollment of the Alumni Association is 298 out of 5,259, only 5.7 percent. I suspect many of you think you belong to our Association but in reality do not. This is a problem which your Board of Directors and I hope to rectify this year.

I am confident that if I were to meet with each of you individually and ask that you join our Alumni Association for $30 a year, you would write me a check on the spot. Well, this is exactly my goal for the year! While I cannot meet with each of our Alumni individually, I do plan on having a representative of our Alumni Association contact you during the year to ask you to join. When asked, please pay the nominal amount and be an official member of our Alumni Association.

While we do have various alumni events throughout the year which your dues help sponsor, the main reasons for your contribution should be loyalty to, and support of, our Law School. The UK College of Law is truly emerging as a law school with a national reputation. This can only make us, as alumni, feel proud and "look good" — particularly for those alumni who, like me, would probably never be able to meet today's high admission requirements at the UK College of Law.

The UK College of Law's past has been bright, but the future is even brighter. Please join your fellow classmates and friends in joining the Alumni Association and supporting our Law School.

I look forward to seeing as many of you as possible throughout the year and please make an effort to attend the various alumni events.

Sincerely,

Thomas N. Kerrick

Thomas N. Kerrick '80
President

As a graduate of the UK College of Law, you can become either a LIFE member of the Law Alumni Association or an ANNUAL member. Annual memberships are renewable on an annual basis and renewal notices are sent out during the month you join.

We sincerely hope you will support the Law Alumni Association with your membership. For membership in the Law Alumni Association, please complete the form below and mail to:
UK College of Law Alumni Office • 226 Law Building • Lexington, KY 40506-0048.

A WILDCAT IN ADDIS ABABA

BY: Lieutenant Colonel
Dennis Sheperd, USAF

UK Law Class of '82

Never in my wildest Wildcat dreams did I think I'd be spending time in the capitol of Ethiopia! I recall taking the survey course in international law taught by Professor John Rogers over fifteen years ago as I pursued my JD, but I don't remember thinking that much would come of it. As things turned out, that area of the law became my specialty and I wound up teaching the human rights aspects of public international law to audiences in Bogota, Colombia; Dakar, Senegal; Antananarivo, Madagascar; and Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

FAR RIGHT —

I left UK Law in 1982 and embarked on a career with the United States Air Force. I spent my first four years as a criminal defense lawyer and then was picked for the LL.M. Program. I left trial practice for a specialty in international and comparative law. I practiced as a specialist in the Philippines before the American military presence disappeared. I was primarily a foreign criminal jurisdiction practitioner. Translated this means I assisted U.S. service members charged with a crime under Filipino law so that they might receive their due process. I then spent three years in Madrid helping the U.S. Forces reduce its presence in Spain. I participated in bilateral talks on the implementation of our defense agreement with the Kingdom of Spain. Parenthetically,

I also found time to run the bulls in Pamplona two years in a row!

After Spain I became a law instructor at the Air Force Judge Advocate General School, where I am now, in Montgomery, Alabama. I direct the Civil Law Division and coordinate the School's overseas teaching. We teach human rights and related topics to a menu of some 70 countries. My instructors and I have taught in Lebanon, Bangladesh, Hungary, Zimbabwe, Central African Republic, Belarus, Czech Republic, Mali, El Salvador, Uzbekistan, Sierra Leone, Rwanda, Bolivia, Estonia, plus the countries I mentioned above.

We spend one work week in each country, lecturing six hours a day. We use a fairly standard course of studies, including human rights, civilian control of the military, military standards of ethical conduct, and law of armed conflict. We also tailor our modules to the subscribing nation. In Colombia, for example, limpieza social, or social cleansing is a major problem. This means well-to-do neighborhoods hire thugs to eliminate (murder) what they consider to be undesirable elements like prostitutes, destitute children and street people. We asked a Colombian expert to speak about the problem. In Madagascar, our audience wanted to know the international rules that the Law of the Sea afforded their fishermen. I taught this. Imagine the pride my audience had learning how international law protected this island nation's right to regulate its exclusive economic zone. In Ethiopia, the country's military leaders wanted to copy the U.S. military justice code and do away with the ineffective French code. My team listened as the two top military legal advisors read to us what they had drafted. We offered several recommendations, with many of these being written into the draft as we spoke.

In addition to the lectures we provide about two hours per day of small group seminars devoted to problem solving. We construct seminar problems which, through hypothetical scenarios, ask our students to make legally correct decisions about extremely sensitive areas. The guerrilla groups in Colombia, for example, have a bad habit of mutilating the corpses of slain government soldiers. Our problems teach the students that government retaliation by murder and mutilation violates international humanitarian law and is not the answer. Do you know what the number one crime problem is in Madagascar (look at a map of Africa; Madagascar is the large island to the lower right of the continent)? It's cattle rustling. That's right, cattle rustling. Our seminar problems reflected this.

I cannot say that our teaching forays always make a noticeable difference. We've taken this program more than once to Sierra Leone and Rwanda, and both countries struggle with democracy to this day. In Rwanda we taught before and after the genocidal massacres of a few years ago. We also taught a special two-week course in prosecuting war crimes. I taught in Colombia and immediately afterwards the country was labeled a persistent violator of human rights. I don't think my teaching and the immediate consequence were in any way linked. Even in the face of these mixed results, I know that, of the 40 to 60 military and civilian officials we address during each trip, some key people will take the lessons to heart. These officials may some day rise to a very high level, to head the Army or Ministry of Defense, or to run a human rights organ of the government. I believe they will find ways to implement the basics of human decency our trips sought to instill. All in all, I reflect on my small contribution to the cause of human rights and thank UK Law and Professor Rogers for getting me started.

Favorable National Rankings

The information received is also reported to the National Association for Law Placement and U.S. News & World Report. The rankings assigned to the University of Kentucky College of Law by U.S. News and World Report based on the Class of 1996 data were very favorable. Of the 178 private and public accredited law schools which were surveyed, UK was assigned a Placement Success Rank of 32 and an Overall Rank of 52! Last year our rankings were 40 and 56, respectively. The National Jurist magazine gave UK a rank of 4 based on employment percentages and an overall rank of 50.

A VIEW OF THE FUTURE:

*The Changing Environment of the UK
College of Law Library*

he Law Library has long been known as the repository of legal information. Gone are the days when this information could only be found in large tomes residing on dusty shelves in the hallowed, hushed confines of the law library. Today's law library is an integral part of the digital information explosion. The law library of the 90's is no longer just a quiet place to study, but rather has become a legal laboratory with exciting new ways of accessing information more quickly and in a more efficient manner.

BY: Carol J. Parris

In addition to the traditional paper format, the UK Law Library has expanded services to include a large array of multi-media finding tools. We take great pride in introducing this new technology to law faculty, law students and law alumni. In addition to the title "law librarian", we have also become legal information specialists with an eye to the future of legal information technology. Our goal is to provide that information to our clients quickly and accurately and then teach them how to use the technology for themselves.

We at the UK College of Law Library are very proud to announce the opening of an Alumni Study Room located on the ground floor of the library. These forty electronically wired carrels are truly the future of legal research and education. Each carrel has a port which laptop users can use to link into the UK network and the Internet. To use a carrel you must have your own laptop. To access network resources you will need an ethernet card and network software. This special facility was made possible through generous donations from UK College of Law Alumni. Any alumnus can "purchase" a carrel for $1,000 dollars and have a brass plaque placed on the carrel. There are still some carrels available for purchase.

Since CD ROMs are on the cutting edge of digital technology, another innovation we have recently acquired is a twenty-one bank CD ROM tower which is linked to the law school network. You may access our many CD ROMs from your laptop in the Alumni

Library's Assistant Director to Lead SEAALL

Sue Burch, Assistant Director of the College of Law Library, has been named Vice-President/President Elect of the Southeastern Association of Law Libraries Chapter of the American Association of Law Libraries. SEAALL has a membership of over 500 librarians from 11 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia.

Study Room or from various computers located on each floor of the library.

CD ROMs offer a number of advantages. One saucer sized disk holds entire volumes of hard copy books. The saved space is tremendous and is the perfect format for law firms who have run out of room for their libraries. The time savings when searching CD ROMs are also tremendous. Many CDs can be searched by keyword emulating Lexis and Westlaw. Instead of searching the expensive online systems such as Lexis or Westlaw you may achieve the same result by searching a CD ROM on the subject. With many CD ROMs you can merely click a button and be connected to the online service for fast updating or Shepardizing. We also have a number of subject specialty CDs available for use in the law library.

The advent of the Internet created an entirely new venue for legal research. Our reference team makes extensive use of the Internet to answer questions on legal topics from around the world. Information on the Internet is overwhelming. Therefore, we have created a UK Law School Library homepage with legal reference starting points designed to aid the user in searching this vast ocean of knowledge with pinpoint accuracy and speed.

You can visit the law library's web page at <http://www.uky.edu/Law/library/menu.htm>. Included on this web page are maps of the library as well as an Alumni Services Guide giving information about library services offered to UK College of Law Alumni.

This article has dealt primarily with the electronic innovations in the law library, but we wish to assure everyone that we still have the faithful standby, the book. Nothing can ever really replace the paper format, nor are we suggesting it should. There are places for all forms of information in the library and it is crucial that law librarians understand all the different formats and impart that knowledge to their clients.

Our by-word at the UK College of Law has become "service". It is our goal to make your visit to the UK College of Law Library enjoyable and enlightening. If you need any assistance or would like to see more of our electronic resources please check with any reference librarian.

You can visit the law library's web page at <http://www.uky.edu/Law/library/menu.htm>

CLASS OF '97 RECOGNIZED WITH CEREMONY

Dean Shipley described graduates as 'future leaders'.

The College of Law held its 88th Commencement Ceremony (now called the "Law Recognition Ceremony") in the Concert Hall of the UK Singletary Center for the Arts on the afternoon of Friday, May 9, 1997. Of the 142 students in the graduating class, 126 attended the ceremony, and their friends and relatives filled the hall to capacity.

After the processional across the stage, Dean David Shipley congratulated not only the graduates but their parents, spouses, children, grandparents and in-laws in the audience, who had supported them during the graduates' three years of law school. He then introduced the speakers.

The person who finishes first in the graduating class traditionally speaks at the graduation ceremony on behalf of that class. This year that student was Amy Cabbage, the first of the College's Bert Combs Scholars to be graduated from the College of Law. Ms. Cabbage is a graduate of Georgetown College with a degree in history and philosophy. She will begin her legal career as an associate with the firm of Brown, Todd & Heyburn in their Louisville office. On behalf of her classmates, she thanked those who made it possible for the Class of '97 to attend and graduate from law school.

The class chose as its faculty speaker Professor Louise Everett Graham, the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, who taught many members of the class in contracts, family law and UCC. Professor Graham spoke about how much she enjoyed teaching the members of the Class of 1997.

Norman E. Harned '65, President of the Kentucky Bar Association and partner with the firm of Harned, Bachert and Denton in Bowling Green, then addressed the graduates on behalf of the bar. He closed his remarks with:

"We are engaged in an important endeavor - we are part of the fabric of our nation. A nation held together not by race, religion or ethnicity - but by law - your chosen profession. Be proud of it. Defend it. On behalf of the Kentucky Bar Association, I welcome you to it."

After the speakers, Dean Shipley announced those members of the graduating class then eligible for the prestigious Order of the Coif based upon their current GPAs. The following students, who at the end of the fall 1996 semester were in or close to the top 10% of their class, stood to applause:

Eric Anthony Braun

Amy Cubbage, Dean Shipley and Glenn McClister

Dean Shipley noted that in addition to being the year in which the first Bert Combs Scholar graduated from the College of Law, this is also the year in which the first African-American student graduated from the joint JD/MBA program. That student is Julius Floyd II of Cincinnati, OH, a graduate of the University of Cincinnati with a degree in Management and Marketing.

Dean Shipley awards Glen McClister the Faculty Cup.

Each year the UK College of Law faculty presents its highest tribute to a graduating student in the form of an engraved sterling silver julep cup. The Faculty Cup is presented to that student whose endeavors, both in and out of the classroom, have made the greatest contribution to the law school, making it a more interesting place in which to teach and a more pleasant place for faculty and students alike. The faculty votes by secret ballot, the results of which are known only to the Dean until the announcement at graduation. The recipient of the Faculty Cup for 1997 is Glenn Stephen McClister of Jamestown.

A non-traditional student, Glenn McClister graduated from the University of South Florida with a degree in Philosophy. He contributed much to class discussions, and was an outstanding ambassador for UK Law as a member of the Trial Advocacy Board national team and on the summer abroad program. He also did much to enhance the cohesiveness of the law school by producing and directing "Inherit the Wind" to raise funds for student public interest fellowships. Mr. McClister is working for Kentucky's Department of Public Advocacy.

For the presentation of degrees, the graduates were announced by then Associate Dean Eugene Gaetke. Each graduate walked the length of the stage to shake hands with Dean Shipley and receive the scroll symbolic of the JD degree. As part of the ceremony, Professor Thomas P. Lewis '54, walked across the stage with his son, J. T. Blaine Lewis, for the receipt of his degree. A graduate of Indiana University - Bloomington with a degree in History, Blaine Lewis served as Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of Natural Resources and Environmental Law.

After the presentation of the degree certificates, Dean Shipley spoke about the contributions of the Class of 1997, which he described as "truly a group of future leaders for the Commonwealth and the nation." A reception for graduates and their families took place after the ceremony at the Hilary J. Boone Faculty Center.

A second article, "The Case for a 'Strong' Regulatory Compliance Defense," appeared at 55 Maryland Law Review 1210 (1996). Another article, "An Insurance-Based Compensation System for Product-Related Injuries," was published at 58 University of Pittsburgh Law Review 669 (1997). Professor Ausness spoke at a symposium "Tobacco: The Growing Controversy," which was held at the Salmon P. Chase College of Law in April, 1997. His speech, entitled "Product Category Liability: A Critical Analysis," was published in a symposium edition of the Northern Kentucky Law Review at 24 N. Ky. L. Rev. 423 (1997).

Carolyn S. Bratt,
W.L. Matthews, Jr. Professor of Law,

was appointed by Mayor Pam Miller to a three year term on the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Planning Commission. Professor Bratt was the original proponent and drafted the enabling legislation for the adoption of a Mediation Program to resolve land use disputes for the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Council. She is serving a one year term as Chair of the Publications Committee for the Eastern Mineral Law Foundation. The results of a two year funded research project, of which Professor Bratt was one of three co-principal investigators, were presented in March at the 1997 Annual Meeting of the American Education Research Association in Chicago. The title of the refereed presentation was "Women and Issues of Gender on College and University Governing Boards."

Rutheford B Campbell, Jr.,
Willburt D. Ham Professor of Law, has published three articles during this past year: "Corporate Fiduciary Principles for the Post-Contractarian Era," 23 Florida State Law Review 561 (1996); "A Positive Analysis of the Common Law of Corporate Fiduciary Duties," 84 Ky. L.J. 455 (1995-96). (This piece received the Hughes Award for best faculty article in the Kentucky Law Journal); and, "Blue Sky Laws and the Recent Congressional Pre-Emption Failure," 22 Journal of Corporate Law 175 (1997). The last piece is a continuation of his Congressional testimony on the National Securities Market Improvement Act of 1996. Professor Campbell is serving on the Kentucky Securities Law Advisory Committee for the Kentucky Department of Financial Institutions which is a committee that will make recommendations for changes in Kentucky's securities laws.

Faculty Visits, Visitors and Departures

Faculty Exchange Program

UK College of Law began a faculty exchange program with Coventry University School of International Studies and Law in England in the Spring of 1997. This program was organized by Professor Roberta Harding and succeeded in facilitating an exchange of ideas about our different systems of law and legal education. On a personal note, Professor Michael Healy and his family moved to the English midlands where they lived in a house built in 1690 and reputed to be haunted. His children returned to Lexington with English accents.

Faculty Departure

Martin McMahon joined the faculty of the University of Florida in the Summer of 1997.

Marty was a valued and respected professor of taxation at the UK College of Law since July of 1979. He will be greatly missed.

Fortune Receives The Robert M. & Joanne K. Duncan Faculty Improvement Award

William H. Fortune, the Edward T. Breathitt Professor of Law, was honored at the Alumni/Student/Faculty Hall of Fame Banquet this past June as the 1997 recipient of the Robert M. & Joanne K. Duncan Faculty Improvement Award. This award which recognizes outstanding and innovative teaching at the College of Law, is made possible by an endowment created in 1982 by Mike & Joanne Duncan '74.

Professor of Law, Director of the Law Library, Director of Legal Research and Writing, and Chief Information Officer for the College of Law, was promoted and received tenure during the 1996-97 academic year. His article "Buying and Using Hardware and Software for Presentations" was published in the June 1996 issue of Marketing Library Services, and another article "Marketing CD-ROM and other Electronic Library Services" appeared in the June issue of Computer In Libraries. "Leading Your Law Library Staff—Four Principles of Effective Leaders" (co-authored with Sue Burch) was also published in the July-September 1996 issue of the Virginia Librarian. Professor Cihak made an October 1996 presentation (with Carol Parris) to the Southeastern Library Association Conference entitled, "Legal Research For Non-Law Librarians: Tips, Tools, and Treasures." He also spoke at the National Computers In Libraries Conference in Arlington, Virginia in March 1997 on the topic "Marketing Electronic Library Services." In addition, he made a presentation entitled, "Leading Today's Law Library Staff," (with Sue Burch) to the Southeastern Association of Law Libraries annual meeting at Tallahassee, Florida in April 1997, and an April 1997 presentation to the Joint Spring Conference of KLA/Special Section,

SLA/Kentucky Chapter on "Electronic Library Resources: Using the Marketing Bridge."

Director of the Elder Law Clinic, started working at the College of Law in January 1997. She is contributing author and editor for Baldwin's Kentucky Practice, Vol.2, "Criminal Practice," which was just published by Banks-Baldwin. She has been awarded the Kentucky Department of Public Advocacy's 1997 Gideon Award in recognition of her contributions in advancing the right to counsel for those accused and convicted of crimes. She filed a petition for certiorari to the U.S. Supreme Court in the death penalty case of Randy Winton Haight v. Kentucky, and she has made three CLE presentations in June on several topics including elder law and significant U.S. Supreme Court criminal decisions.

Mary J. Davis,
Stites & Harbison Professor of Law, published an article entitled "Mass Tort Litigation: Congress' Silent, But Deadly Reform Effort," 64 Tennessee Law Review No.3 (June 1997). She completed an article critiquing several recent federal court of appeals cases regarding the use of the class action device in mass tort litigation.

It is titled "Of Rights and Remedies: Fairness and Integrity in Mass Tort Litigation." In addition, Professor Davis continues to work with the authors of Product Liability and Safety (3d ed. 1996) and is currently helping write a Teachers Manual for that casebook as well as a 1997 Statutory Supplement. She also has been named Co-National Reporter for the U.S. Report on Summary Adjudication for the 15th International Congress of Comparative Law to be held in Bristol, England in August 1998. Professor Davis recently took charge of a project to revitalize the Henry Clay American Inn of Court in Lexington and to increase the association of that organization, dedicated to encouraging professional responsibility and civility among lawyers, with the College of Law. Professor Davis will be a visiting professor at the College of William & Mary School of Law in the fall of 1997.

Todd B. Eberle,
Associate Dean and Director of Continuing Legal Education, had an article, "CLE's Ticket to Ride," published in The Loop, the quarterly publication of the Association for Continuing Legal Education, Vol. XVIII, No. 1 (Spring 1997). In January, Todd attended the mid-year meeting of the Association for Continuing Legal Education (ACLEA) in Santa Barbara, California and served as a facilitator for the New Member Orientation and Workshop. He will also be making a presentation on model rules for continuing legal education at the 1998 Mid-Year Meeting in Charleston, S.C. He is active on several ACLEA Committees including Nominations, Long Range Planning, and the By-Laws of which he serves as Chair. Todd maintains his active interest in access to legal services for the poor with reappointments to the Board of Directors of Central Kentucky Legal Services and the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky.

William H. Fortune,
Edward T. Breathitt Professor of Law,

co-authored a book with Professor Rick Underwood and Professor Ed Imwinkelried (University of California-Davis) entitled Modern Litigation and Professional Responsibility Handbook which was published in 1996. He is currently working on the fourth edition of Psychology and the Legal System with the Dean of the UK Graduate School, Professor Mike Nietzel, and Professor Larry Wrightsman (University of Kansas). It will be published in 1997. He also has a book in progress, Kentucky Criminal Law, co-authored with Professor Robert Lawson, which will be published in 1997/98. He has made CLE presentations for the Kentucky Bar Association, UKCLE, the Attorney General and the Administrative Office of the Courts. He continues his mediation work with the Mediation Center of Kentucky.

Eugene R. Gaetke,
H. Wendell Cherry Professor of Law,

has returned to full-time teaching and research after serving three years as the College of Law's Associate Dean for Academic Affairs. He and Professor Robert G. Schwemm recently had their article entitled "Government Lawyers and Their Private 'Clients' Under the Fair Housing Act" published in Volume 65 of the George Washington Law Review.

Alvin L. Goldman,
Dorothy Salmon Professor of Law,

recently updated and revised his chapter on the "Resolution of Interests Disputes" for the newest edition of Comparative Labor Law and Industrial Relations in Industrialized Market Economies and prepared the updated U.S. statutory supplement for the International Encyclopedia for Labor Law. In early 1997 he presented a paper "Walking the Tightrope of Diversity: Sensitivity without Stereotyping or Sensitive Stereotyping?" at Stetson Law School's 12th Annual Conference on Labor and Employment Law and in early April he spoke to graduate law and business students at the University of Paris I and II on the ineffectiveness of American labor and employment law in dealing with growing income distribution imbalances. In addition, Professor Goldman selected, edited and prepared for International Labor Law Reports three case commentaries representing significant recent developments in U.S. labor and employment law. He is collaborating with Professor Jacques Rojot, Dean of the Business School at the Sorbonne (Paris I), in revising their respective books on negotiations.

Professor Goldman attended the 1st World Law Conference in Brussels in September 1996 where he was a reporter for two sessions that included exploring developments in labor and employment law. He also attended the mid-year annual meeting of the National Academy of Arbitrators in Baltimore in October and the Academy's 50th Anniversary meeting in Chicago in May. He continues as an Executive Committee member of the Labor Law Group, is Vice Chair of the U.S. Branch of the International Society of Labor Law, and just completed his term as a member of the Board of Governors of the National Academy of Arbitrators.

Louise Graham,
Wendell H. Ford Professor of Law,

became the College's Associate Dean for Academic Affairs last Summer. She co-authored an article with Professor Geraldine Maschio, University of Kentucky College of Fine Arts, entitled "A False Public Sentiment: Narrative And Visual Images Of Women Lawyers In Film" for the Kentucky Law Journal's symposium on "The Sesquicentennial Of The 1848 Seneca Falls Woman's Rights Convention: American Women's Unfinished Quest For Legal Economic, Political, And Social Equality." The second edition of Kentucky Domestic Relations, co-authored by Professor Graham and Judge James E. Keller will be published in the October. Professor Graham authored a report, "Permanency Planning for Kentucky Children," for the Administrative Office of the Courts as a part of statewide efforts to evaluate outcomes for children in foster care. Professor Graham has been elected to the Executive Committee of the AALS Section for Academic Support, a group that focuses on developing programs to help students improve law school performance. She is also serving on the Children's Justice Task Force and the Kentucky Domestic Violence Legal Network.

Roberta M. Harding,
Associate Professor of Law,

has completed two articles comparing the rights of the incarcerated in the United States and in the member countries of the Council of Europe and is in the process of having them published. Professor Harding is conducting preliminary research for an article exploring responsibility and execution. In the Summer of 1996 she taught a six week class titled "Crime and Punishment" in London, England. Several UK College of Law students took the course. Professor Harding will be a visiting professor at Wake Forest University School of Law during the Fall of 1997 where she will teach Civil Procedure I and Remedies. Professor Harding administers the faculty exchange program with Coventry University's School of International Studies and Law which recently sent Professor Janice Montague, its first visiting professor, to UK, and she continues to be involved with the Student Public Interest Law Foundation (SPILF). She also was appointed by Chief Justice Robert Stephens to serve on the Fayette County Family Court Feasibility Task Force.

Inaugural Stites & Harbison Professorship of Law Awarded to Mary J. Davis

In 1996 the law firm of Stites & Harbison announced another multi-year commitment to the College and created the Stites & Harbison Professorship of Law. The College is excited to announce that the first recipient of this professorship is Professor Mary J. Davis. Professor Davis joined the faculty in 1991 after six years of a litigation practice, primarily in the area of products liability. She teaches classes in torts, conflicts and products liability and writes in the field of tort litigation and product liability. She has been the faculty advisor of the Trial Advocacy Board since she joined the faculty.

Michael P. Healy, Associate Professor of Law,

was a Visiting Lecturer at Coventry University's School of International Studies and Law during the Spring 1997 Semester. Professor Healy taught a course in International Environmental Law to graduate students in law and science. He also presented a faculty colloquium on American water pollution law, participated in a faculty discussion of American and British approaches to legal education, and led classes on the American law of informed consent. Professor Healy also published an article in the Coventry University Law Journal, entitled "An American Lawyer's Reflections on Pepper v. Hart." The article compares American and English approaches to statutory construction. Professor Healy is now at work on a comparative environmental law article with Professor Bob Gingell, a colleague at Coventry University. Professor Healy's article on Clean Water Act citizen suits, "Still Dirty After Twenty-Five Years: Water Quality Standard Enforcement and the Availability of Citizen Suits," will be published by the "Ecology Law Quarterly." Professor Healy presented this paper to the law school faculty in November as part of the Randall-

Park Colloquium Series. Professor Healy's review of Joel A. Mintz's book, "Enforcement at the EPA: High Stakes and Hard Choices" (1995), was published in Growth and Change, a journal produced by the University of Kentucky College of Business and Economics. At the invitation of the Kentucky Attorney General's Office, Professor Healy and Professor John Rogers made a presentation in December to members of Kentucky's Office of the Attorney General on oral advocacy for appellate lawyers.

Robert G. Lawson, Alumni Professor of Law,

has been back in the College of Law for a year (after a two-year period working with the President's Office at UK). He has recently completed the 1997 supplement to his book on Kentucky Evidence Law. He and Professor Fortune are in the final stages of completing their book on Kentucky Criminal Law (with the manuscript scheduled to be submitted to Michie Company at the end of the summer). He was recently appointed to Governor Patton's Task Force on Crime and chairs a task force committee that is contemplating overhaul or revision to the Kentucky Penal Code.

Thomas P. Lewis, William T. Lafferty Professor of Law,

is continuing his work on a substantial article on the Kentucky Constitution. In May, 1997 he sat as a Special Justice on the Kentucky Supreme Court in the Southeastern United Medigroup, Inc. V. Hughes, et al.

Douglas C. Michael, Professor of Law,

was promoted during the 1996-97 academic year. He published Legal Accounting: Principles and Applications, a casebook, this Summer. Last September he presented a paper on the United States perspective on the use of voluntary codes in government regulation at a symposium hosted by the Canadian federal government in Ottawa. The following month, Professor Michael traveled to Montreal as a panelist at a symposium on regulation of the Internet, sponsored by the University of Montreal's Center for Research in Public Law. In addition to his regular teaching, Professor Michael also coordinated the first-year Academic Success program for the Fall semester of the 1996-97 academic year. He is currently working on an article on Kentucky fraudulent transfer law.

Kathryn L. Moore, Assistant Professor of Law,

completed and presented a colloquium on her article, "State and Local Taxation: When Will Congress Intervene?" last Fall. The article was published by the Notre Dame Journal of Legislation. This summer she wrote an article, "Privatization of Social Security: Misguided Reform." Another article, "State and Local Taxation of Interstate and Foreign Commerce: The Second Best Solution," was published at 42 Wayne Law Review 1425 (1996).

John M. Rogers,
Brown, Todd & Heyburn
Professor of Law,

defends his deck-of-cards method of calling on students in an article in the most recent issue of the Journal of Legal Education entitled "Class Participation: Random Calling and Anonymous Grading." His article entitled "Anticipating the New Constitution of Hong Kong from an American Legal Perspective" appeared in the May 1997 issue of the Vanderbilt Journal of Transnational Law. Professor Rogers' review of a new treatise on the Hong Kong Basic Law recently appeared in the Hong Kong Law Review. In his Army Reserve officer capacity, Professor Rogers was asked to join the Consulting Graduate faculty of the Army Command & General Staff College. This means he is invited to visit the College in Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, three times during the academic year to consult with graduate students there.

Paul Salamanca,
Assistant Professor of Law,

will have his article, "An Impact-Based Approach to Non-Establishment and Official Referral to Alcoholics Anonymous," published this Fall in the University of Cincinnati Law Review. He is presently at work on another article concerning the free exercise of religion and the right to privacy.

Robert G. Schwemm,
Ashland Oil Professor of Law,

recently published an article co-authored with Professor Gaetke entitled "Government Lawyers and Their Private 'Clients' Under the Fair Housing Act" in the George Washington Law Review. The seventh annual supplement to Professor Schwemm's book, Housing Discrimination: Law and Litigation (Clark Boardman Callaghan) will be published this Fall. During the past year he gave speeches on fair housing and lending discrimination in Washington, Chicago, Albuquerque, Montgomery and Philadelphia. In June 1997, he was the moderator-facilitator for the ninth straight year at the annual convention of the National Fair Housing Alliance.

New Elder Law Clinic Opens This Fall

The University of Kentucky College of Law has opened its first in-house, live client clinic this fall. The Clinic provides low-income seniors with free legal services.

The U.K. Elder Law Clinic is staffed by third year law students to serve anyone 60 or older who falls below the government's poverty guidelines. Located on South Limestone Street across from the Law Building, it will handle a variety of legal issues, including benefits and health care law, advance directives, elder abuse, housing and consumer fraud. The clinical experience will not only integrate theory with practice to better prepare the College's graduates for demanding professional lives, it will foster social responsibility by allowing students to provide real and needed assistance to one of the most vulnerable segments of our society.

The students will be supervised by the College's newest faculty member and Clinical Director Allison Connelly. Previously Connelly worked as the state's Public Advocate under Governor Brereton Jones, overseeing a public defender program that handles over 100,000 cases a year.

Recognizing the vital role clinical education plays in training future lawyers, the College of Law under the leadership of Dean David Shipley, has made a commitment to provide students with the opportunity to participate in a quality legal clinic while providing a much needed public service to the community.

David E. Shipley,
Dean of the College of Law and Professor of Law, gave a speech entitled "But I Like the Card Catalog and My Old Smith-Corona" to the Annual Meeting of the Southeastern Association of Law Librarians in Tallahassee. He participated in a panel discussion on professionalism and civility at the Regional Meeting of the American College of Trial Lawyers in Lexington. He published a short article in the January/February edition of the Fayette County Bar News titled "A Law School Dean in Judge Keller's Court: My Service as a Circuit Court Juror." In January he was a panelist at the ABA's Annual Workshop for Deans in San Antonio on the topic "Dealing with Generation X: Sesame Street, Computers, Jobs and Demands." He also participated in a panel discussion of the fair use doctrine sponsored by the UK Computer Center, and spoke to the Louisville Kiwanis Club about the legal profession.

Thomas J. Stipanowich,
W.L. Matthews Professor of Law,

was recently appointed Academic Advisor to the National Conference of Commissioners on State Laws Drafting Committee to reform the Uniform Arbitration Act and Academic Reporter for the National Consumer ADR Due Process Task Force. He is a member of the National Arbitration and Mediation Advisory Committee of the National Conference of Securities Dealers, the American Arbitration Association National Construction Dispute Resolution Committee, and chair of the Arbitration Committee of the ABA Section of Dispute Resolution. He is in his second year as one of three national Public Members of the Securities Industry Conference on Arbitration, and is an advisor to the CPR Commission on Ethics and Standards of Dispute Resolution Practice, which convened in Washington in June. His article, "Punitive Damages and the Consumerization of Arbitration" is forthcoming in the Northwestern Law Review; and "On the Cutting Edge: Dispute Avoidance and Resolution in the Construction Industry," will be published as a chapter in Arbitration and the Law. "The Growing Debate Over 'Consumerized' Arbitration: Adding Cole to the Fire" recently appeared in Dispute Resolution Magazine, and an article on pending revisions to the Uniform Arbitration Act appeared in ADR Reports. Tom was moderator for a panel on the Future of Court-Connected ADR at the ABA Annual Convention in Orlando in August 1996, a speaker at the National Conference on the Future of Punitive Damages at the University of Wisconsin Law School in October 1996, moderator for a panel on Consumers and ADR at the CPR Institute Winter Meeting in New York City in January 1997, a speaker for a Faculty Colloquium at the Ohio State College of Law in February, and, a speaker at a program on Reform of the Uniform Arbitration Act in Washington last April 1997. In addition, he spoke at several CLE programs around the Commonwealth and two of his decisions as a Special Master were published in the Federal Supplement. Tom's work as a facilitator included the long range planning meeting for the ABA Forum on the Construction Industry in Banff, Alberta, Canada.

Richard H. Underwood,
Spears-Gilbert Professor of Law,

just published Kentucky Evidence Law Courtroom Manual (Anderson Publishing Company 1997). He is currently working on books on Law and Medicine and Kentucky Insurance Law, and completing his ongoing work on a book about perjury law. He had two new articles published this Summer; one on genetic testing in the Kentucky Law Journal, and one on cross-examination in the American Journal of Trial Advocacy. Professor Underwood spoke at Spring CLE programs sponsored by UK Law School and by the KBA Corporate Counsel Section.

Stephen Vasek,
Associate Professor of Law,

with assistance from the law firm of Jackson & Kelly, organized a one-day seminar on International Trade Law which was held at the law school in March. He made a presentation on the Convention on International Sales of Goods. In early April, he accompanied a team of five UK Law students to Vienna, Austria for competition in the Wilhelm C. Vis International Commercial Law Arbitration Moot. He also served as an arbitrator-judge. The team's travel was supported by Jackson & Kelly. With Michael Reynolds he also taught a one-day workshop in Lexington (June 25) and a one-day workshop in Louisville (June 26) on Estate and Gift Taxation.

Harold R. Weinberg,
Wyatt, Tarrant & Combs
Professor of Law,

authored a computer tutorial on Documents of Title under Article Seven of the U.C.C. that won second place in the 1996 Trautman Competition sponsored by the Center for Computer-Assisted Legal Instruction ("CALI"). He shared the prize with 1997 UK Law graduate Scott Truesdell who provided programming assistance. CALI is now distributing the program to its 130 member law schools. Professor Weinberg revised and updated his chapter on "Documents of Title" in Matthew Bender's Debtor-Creditor Law treatise. The chapter was published in March, 1997. Professor Weinberg was an instructor at the 1996 Circuit Judge's Judicial College where he surveyed the recent amendments to Articles 3, 4 and 8 of Kentucky's Uniform Commercial Code. He spoke in the University of Kentucky Graduate Sport Management Program concerning "Athletic Competition v. Economic Competition: Sports and Antitrust Law."

Sarah N. Welling,
Wendell H. Ford Professor of Law,

spoke last January at the AALS Annual Conference on money laundering in cyberspace. She attended an ABA Conference on the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, the ABA National Institute on White Collar Crime, and the Bank Secrecy Act Advisory Group meetings at the Treasury Department in Washington, D.C. In June she was a group leader at a day long "operational exercise" in Washington, D.C. sponsored by the Treasury Department and the RAND Corporation, to develop counter-measures for money laundering in cyberspace. She has been named chief reporter for the second edition of the Sixth Circuit Criminal Pattern Jury Instructions. She is continuing work on her treatise on federal criminal law which will be published by West in 1997/98.

Invest in the Future

*Give to the College of Law
Annual Fund*

Our yesterdays

follow us; they constitute our life, and they give character and force and meaning to our present deeds.

— Joseph Parker

The investments made by the University of Kentucky College of Law's alumni and friends provide that critical funding needed to educate tomorrow's leaders today. For nearly 100 years, the UK College of Law has produced leaders of small and large communities, the Commonwealth, the nation and the world. Today there are more than 5,000 living graduates of this law school who have reaped the benefits of these investments.

If today's students are to meet the next century prepared for the challenges that will surely confront them, your investments will be needed to provide them the necessary tools — • Cutting edge technology in the classroom and in the library • Real-life experiences in the classroom and in clinical situations
• Distinguished Faculty • Financial Aid
• Ground-breaking research.

Your continuing investment in the College through your donations to the Annual Fund will help guarantee the quality of our institution in the future. Your gift will ensure that the UK College of Law will continue to attract the finest students who, like those who came before them, will become the leaders of their communities, the Commonwealth and the nation.
